Poetical.

BEGIN WITH GOD.
Begin thy day with God!
He is thy sun and day;
His is the radiance of thy dawn;
To him address thy law.

Sing a new song at noon;
Join the glad winds and hills;
Join the fresh winds and seas and plains;
Join the bright shores and hills!

Take thy first walk with God;
Let him go forth with thee;
By stream or sea or mountain path
Still seek his company.

Thy first transaction be
With God himself above;
So shall thy business prosper well,
And all the day be love!

Miscellany.

INCIDENT OF THE BATTLE FIELD.

A pious soldier, mortally wounded in one of the great battles of the Peninsular war, was carried by two or three attached comrades to the rear of the scene of action. They laid him down under a tree, and unwilling to leave him in such a condition of agony and peril, lingered beside him to see if there was no other act of kindness which they could do. His speech seemed affected, so that he was unable to answer intelligibly to their inquiries; but he made them understand by signs that he would not wish them to remain with him to the neglect of their post of duty in the battle. Reluctantly they left him and returned. A little after, an officer who had been hastily summoned from a distance to join the action, rode past. He pulled up on seeing a fellow countryman alone and bleeding to death, and asked if there was nothing he could do for him. The soldier informed something in the negative, and mentioned to him also to go forward. "My poor fellow," said the officer kindly, "if you ascertain gone as to be beyond the reach of help yourself, perhaps I could do something for your friends at home; is there no message I could carry for you to your wife and children?"

At the mention of his family a flush of colour seemed to return to the dying man.

He said, distinctly: "Yes; knapsack-book."

The officer dismounted and opened the knapsack beside him. He searched for a book in it, and soon drew out a Bible. The soldier continued: "Read John xiv. 28."

The hand which held it was little accustomed to turn over the sacred pages, and slowly and not without difficulty the verse was found and read. A radiant and heavenly smile lighted up the poor man's features as he listened. "There there!" he exclaimed, in thrilling and triumphant tones, "all is want. I have peace. I am going home; my Savio[n] is waiting to receive me!"

The officer gazed on him a moment in speechless astonishment, and then remembering that he ought to have been at his post before now, threw the Bible into the knapsack, sprang into his saddle, and was gone.

Within an hour afterward, that same officer was carried by his men on a rude litter, out of the field of battle. He, too, was mortally wounded, and had not spoken until they approached the tree where the lifeless remains of the soldier were now stretched on the ground. The spot too vividly recalled the circumstances which had taken place there so short a time before. Passing his hand over his forehead, he was heard to say, in tones of heartfelt anguish: "I have no Bible! I have no peace! There is no Savio[n] waiting to receive me!"

Both these men were exposed to the power of the sword; both to us their mortal life fell victims to it; yet the heir of the promise, in the hour of his lonely death experienced the "I will" of deliverance—his soul was delivered from the power of the sword.

A SLAVESTRUST IN GOD.

A friend sends the Evangelist the following account of a recent interview with some slaves liberated by the war, at Columbus, Ky.

In the long stable are gathered some five hundred souls. Every ten feet or so is a little fire over which they cook their scanty rations; and around which is gathered a group of old and young. The whole room is full of smoke. I stopped at each fire and inquired how they were getting along, whether any were Christians, &c. All along I found individuals of deep Christian experience. Speaking to an old man, of these troublous times, he said, "I don't all well. When I was a slave my master would sometimes whip me awful, especially when he knew I was praying. He was determined to whip the Spirit out of me, but he never did, for the more he whip the Spirit make me content to be whipped; and it's content. When I come here I have bad times, sore—I am hungry, work hard, no pay and no place to stay; but den de good Spirit makes me content all the time. If de secess come here dey will shoot me, every black man here dey can see and dat makes trouble, for we go across the river here as the General tell us to do, why dem esch on other side de river jes shoot us back or into de river, and so it will go wid us poor black folks. But all dat don't trouble me a all, for I know God's up there and His Spirit is here in my heart, and I'll content all de time to let my Lord manage all these things I am happy all de time."

It is amusing to hear the discussions among the men on the subject of their present distressed condition. One says, "Brethren, we're come to de Red Sea, dat is jes' where we are; de Gipians is behind us now; what we wants de east. Dat is de prayer of Christians to take us over de river. Unbelief is great, but God will speak by-and-by through Mass-a Linckum, and say, Go forward—we'll march. We must have patience!"

JERUSALEM UNDERGROUND.

An account of Signor Pierotti's discoveries in the subterranean topography of Jerusalem has been published.—Employed by the Pasha as an engineer, he has discovered that the modern city of Jerusalem stands on several layers of ruined masonry, the undermost of which, composed of deeply bevelled and enormous stones, he attributes to the age of Solomon, the next to that of Zorobabel, the next to that of Justinian, and so on till the time of the Saracens and Crusaders. He has traced a series of conduits and sewers leading from the "valley of the rocks," a moat-like standing on the very site of the altar of sacrifice in the Temple, to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, by means of which the priests were enabled to flush the whole temple area with water, and thus to carry off the blood and oil of the sacrifices to the hench Ketron. The number of his explorations was very interesting. He got an Arab to walk up through these immense sewers, ringing a bell and blowing a trumpet, while he himself, by following the sound, was able to trace the exact course they took. About two years ago he accidentally discovered a fountain at the pool of Bethesda, and on his opening it a copious stream of water immediately began to flow, and has flowed ever since. No one knows whence it comes or whither it goes. This caused the greatest excitement amongst the Jews, who flocked in crowds to drink and bathe themselves in it. They fancied it was one of the signs of Messiah's coming, and hastened the speedy restoration of their commonwealth. This fountain, which has a peculiar taste, like that of milk and water, is identified by Signor Pierotti with the fountain which Hezekiah built, and which is described by Josephus. The measurements and position of most of these conduits accord exactly with the Jewish historian's description. Some of the Sigma's conclusions are disputed, notwithstanding his numerous publications on the subject of the Holy City.—Am. Presbyterian and Theological Review.

HOW MUCH? NOT HOW LITTLE?

"I have got my work done, said Rutherford, now let us go to play."

"I have not got mine done yet," said Albert. "I did not hear father tell you to do anything except to hoe this corn, and you have done it."

"That is true, but I know he wanted this bed weed out."

"Why didn't he tell you to do it, then?"

"Probably he forgot it: I heard him say yesterday, that the bed was suffering through want of weeding."

"If I do all I am told to do, I think that is enough."

Both of these boys intended to be obedient—were obedient. But there was a difference.—The one was content to do what he was told to do. The other wished to do the will of his father, whether it was formally expressed or not. God's children intend to be obedient to him, but there is a difference among them. Some are content to do what is clearly commanded, or what their conscience compels them to do; others wish to please God in all things; so that an act will please God, they do not stop to inquire whether he has expressly commanded it or not. Love is the motive which prompts them to action. Love is with them the fulfilling of the law.

This is the class of Christians to which we ought to belong. Then the question will not be, How little can I get along with doing for God? but, How much can I do for him?—Observer.

THE SITUATION.

Although it must be acknowledged that at the commencement of the war of the rebellion, we underrated the resources and unity of the South, as well as the herculean nature of the task we had undertaken in their subjugation, and notwithstanding that we have at times been deceived in the extent to which they were demoralized and crippled by pinching want and the absence of needed supplies of men and means, still it must be admitted as true beyond a doubt, that the information received of late from the South, and that too of the most reliable nature, indicates a most alarming state of things there. The despatches intercepted and captured upon Sumter, together with authentic extracts from Southern Steamship papers, are unmistakable in the nature of the facts which they convey to us. The following extract from a most remarkable article, taken from the Richmond Advertiser of the 12th inst., utters no uncertain sound, with all its bluster and bugagelaria. For the first-admitted are too poor of their necessities and fears, not to indicate plainly, that the bugagelaria portions and the belligerent portions do not fit together, any more than a Jeromeade could be set to the tune of the Fisher's Horn Pipe—and indeed the words of forged encouragement in the cause of the rebellion, sound very much like "whistling to keep their courage up":

THE PESTILENCE.—We learn that last week a large quantity of clothing was sent ashore from the transport lying in our harbor, and on which the small pox then was raging, and washed by a woman living on Peckham & Bell's wharf. We fear that on Wednesday of this week another large lot were sent to the same person for the same purpose. This is really one of the worst means by which that pest is spread abroad, and is, we think, in violation of law. If so, it ought to be punished severely. We learn that the attention of the authorities has been called to this matter, and we have no doubt that they will give the parties their desert.

LAWRENCE.—We saw to-day at the market of Mr. Benjamin Birchen, a shop raised by Peter Sherman, Esq., of Middletown. It was two years old when killed, and weighed 1500 lbs. It is of the Southdown breed. He has another "of the same sort." Mr. Sherman, we understand, challenges the State throughout to beat this, and would like to hear who is the lucky man that can. Benjamin's is the place to buy "fat mutton." It was sold to John Clegg, Jr., Esq.

LOGOR QUESTION AGAIN.—It appears by our Legislative Record that this question is again opened by that body. The Committee on Finance through their Chairman, Senator Cozzens of this city, has reported in favor of granting Bences to sell intoxicating liquors, and the Report was adopted by the Senate and the Committee on Judiciary were ordered to draw a bill to accomplish that object. We learn also that the citizens of this city, who are opposed to the repeal of the present laws, are taking steps to show their opposition to the Legislature by circulating petitions among the people.

REAL ESTATE SALES.—Mr. William Speaker has sold to Miss Esther W. Wilbur and Mrs. Mary E. Nicolai, the estate corner of Thomas and John streets, for $2000.

Mr. Samuel H. Whitehill of Boston, has purchased of Miss Esther W. Wilbur et al., the estate next South of Peter Parker's on Bellevue Avenue for $3000.

Mr. Benjamin Finch has sold to Mr. J. Alfred Hazard, the Weaver estate next north of Merchant's Bank, on Thruway street, for $3,500.

Mr. William G. Peabody has sold to Mr. John Peabody, 2d, a lot on Willow street, 100' by 50, for $350. The same lot was afterwards sold to Mr. John C. Brainerd, for $375.

It is reported that the estate of James F. Ollis, on Greenwich Court, has been sold to parties in New York, for $14,000.—Mercury.

PROF. HARRINGTON.—It will be seen by our advertising columns that the famous Professor Harrington is in town, and will exhibit for the last time to-night. We are informed that his exhibitions have been a New England Institution for more than thirty years, and that is a guarantee for its moral as well as its amusing quality. We advise all to go and witness one of the most wonderful performances that has ever come to our city.

THE NEW YORK SEN.—We observe that this Journal is about to reduce its number of exchanges. We hope, brother Sen, that you will not include us among the "cut off's," for we can not well spare your able sheet from our Table. Few are more welcome, and few would be more missed, for although we don't always see things in the same light, yet we acknowledge your enterprise and ability. "Oh, then remember—"

DISCHARGE.—Lieutenant Joshua P. Clarke, of this city, has been discharged from the army from disability, and has reached his home. He was ordered to report to his post at Washington, and did so, but his Surgeon decided him to be unable to perform military duty and consequently he was discharged.

We publish the following communication very cheerfully, and think an "old subscriber" is right in deeming that our government have accomplished something.

Mr. Editor: By publishing the following list of triumphs of the Union arms, you may do something towards silencing the croakers and orators of the flat hearted:—Drums, Mill Spring, Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Bowling Green, Nolin, Island No. 10, Corinth, Fort Wright, Memphis, Pea-soda, Fort Palaski, Port Royal, Fort Moultrie, Neutral, Bonaparte Island, Norfolk and Merrimac, Yorktown, Williamsburg, New Orleans, Antietam, Murfreesboro, Fort Arkansas, and the whole south blockaded by sea and land—till includes is worth $7 a gallon, boots $28 a pair, hats $10 a box in Charlestown, and not far from Northern Territory occupied by the South. Yours, An old Subcriber.

A few nights since, as Mr. Atwater Colvin was passing an old dwelling in Covertly, R. I., where a Mr. Place with his wife has been living a few weeks, he saw that the house was on fire. He succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but found the body of Mrs. Place in the fireplace. Her legs were burned entirely off, and her body was burned to a crisp.

Colvin is acknowledged to be no longer king, foreign aid is all but a myth, and the fact acknowledged that the South have gained no single real advantage aggressively over the North. Now, then, is the time to strike, and we verily believe that soon the wires of the telegraph will electrify our ears with news that will make them tingle again with joy and hope. Everything points to an immediate and terrible conflict on the Rappahannock, that will decide the fate of Richmond. Gen. Foster's movement in North Carolina plainly indicate that the war there will act simultaneously with the Army of the Potomac; while Gen. Rosecrans will follow Bragg up with a sharp stick!—If these three movements should be made simultaneously, we believe the cause of the Union

Editorial Table.

The Knickerbocker.—New series, for February is at hand, for the third time in some months. This is now very well conducted as a literary Magazine, but under a professed independence in politics and freedom from all party bias; it leaves like all professed neutrals, in another war we read of, very strongly to the side of torism. It is called a new series, but it is a new train on an old route—the cars have been painted light instead of dark and somewhat polished in their interior furniture, but they run on the same track—abuse of the government of the United States. There are some interesting articles in this number, but do not whether the author is equal to the honor. J. H. Elliott, 37 Park Row, New York.

PETERSON'S LADIES' NATIONAL MAGAZINE, for February, is also at hand. It contains forty-three Articles and sixty-one embellishments. It is a very rich number in both the press matter, and fashion plates. It has an able corps of contributors, and in addition to the usual number of shorter stories, will contain during the present annual series, four original novelties, by different well known writers. In addition to its fashion plates, colored patterns in embroidery, crochet &c, each number will contain receipts for cookery, that will at the end of the year form a complete cook-book of receipts well tested. Each number is also enriched by a piece of new fashionable music.

Charles J. Peterson, 305 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

New England Soldiers' Relief Association.—We have received the report of the Superintendent of this valuable Association, made in December 1862. It was founded by the Sons of New England resident in New York, April 23, 1862, and has performed good service, in assisting invalid soldiers, and also in entertaining troops while in transit through the city. It has received high commendations from our own and other New England States, as well from States in other parts of the Union. Donations of money and material are solicited, and any amount of either forwarded for that purpose will be well applied.

A row has been created among the rebel garrisons in prison in St. Louis and in the Alton Penitentiary by the news that they have been exchanged as prisoners of war, and are to be delivered forthwith to the Confederate authorities at Vicksburg. A majority of them are opposed to this proceeding, and it is said, many who have before steadfastly refused are anxious to return to their allegiance.

The venerable George Thoburn died at New Haven Thursday, aged 90 years. Up to within a very short time he has retained all his faculties, and has been as stout as most men at fifty. He came to this country from Scotland in early life, and has been noted for his eccentricities and his benevolence.

A wealthy old gentleman wishing to get rid of a servant who had long been with him, said to him: "Well, Tom, I am sorry to say we must part, to-morrow, Tom, to-morrow, Tom, where are you going?" The relation between the West and New England is not that of master and servant, but when Cox & Co. prepare to port company with us, it is pertinent for us to ask and for the men of the West to consider, where they are going.

A Washington letter says the material facts in the case of Gen. Stone will soon be published.—The evidences against him is of a circumstantial character, going to show that he was friendly towards the rebels, and became their mail carrier, but after all this it may have been a kind disposition to oblige.

The friends of Mr. Anthony Trollope, and the readers of his works, will be gratified to see that, with his thorough acquaintance with our institutions and with the cause and progress of the war, notwithstanding our slow progress to final success, he still stands by us and gives the aid of his imperial testimony to the justice of our cause.—When we consider the character and intelligence of those Englishmen who have ranged themselves upon our side in the conflict, we have good reason for congratulation and pride.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.—We observe that this Journal is about to reduce its number of exchanges. We hope, brother Sen, that you will not include us among the "cut off's," for we can not well spare your able sheet from our Table. Few are more welcome, and few would be more missed, for although we don't always see things in the same light, yet we acknowledge your enterprise and ability. "Oh, then remember—"

TO HORSE OWNERS.

Dr. Sweet's Infallible Liniment

is unrivaled, and in all cases of Lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wounding, is equal to any medical and certain Remedy or Salve. Galls, Sores, Mange, &c., will also cure quickly. Sprains and lameness may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. Sprain of the limb, however, is so easily cured, hopeless but it may be alleviated by the Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to trot with comparative ease.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its use at the first appearance of Lameness, will effectually prevent those formidable diseases succeeded to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

by Dr. J. L. THAYER.

This Book is not one of a series of Trivial publications, but is a compilation of the best fruits of the labor of its author in school-government and composition during a period of more than twenty years.

Special attention is directed to the fact that this Book is from large clear type, the object being not to print much but to crowdfill it but how well it could be done. We have, therefore, a handsome open page, with but one part on a staff, except in a few instances, well known times selected for congregational use.

THE SPECIFIC PILL.

SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR

Symptomatic or Seminal Weakness, and Genital Irritability in either Sex.

This Remedy, the real consequence of which are known to require more than a forewarning to them, is one of the most distinct, and therefore dangerous, of all the long catalogue of human ill. It says the very genius of life, rapidly undermining the constitution, it sinks the unhappy victim into infidelity and a premature grave! From one to six boxes of the SPECI. PILL are sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the severest aggravated cases, whether constitutional or acute or chronic.

We believe it to be, in the treatment of Spermatorrhœa, as near a specific as any medicine can be. — H. KIRK, M. D.—See, also, Medical Science.

I have found them all boldly desired. Their effect is absolutely wonderful. I used them in a case of Spermatorrhœa of long standing which had been under treatment for years. I think three boxes will complete the cure.—E. P. DICKER, M. D.
